THE FIRST DISTRICT CONVENTION The Republicans of the First Assembly District are to be heartily congratulated for placing in nomination for the Legislature, so substantial and worthy a man as Mr. R. J. Burdge, of Newark. There was a good degree of interest taken in that district regarding the coming man for the Assembly, and three or four candidates were in the field: but when the Convention assembled, The Republicans were united on one thing-that of securing one of the best men in the district for a nomines of the Convention. On the informal ballot, Mr. Burdge received a majority of all the votes, and a motion gave him the nomination by acclamation. Mr. Burdge first settled in this county in 1845, and with the exception of a few years spent in California and in the East, has since made Rock county his home, engaging in agricultural pursuits. In early life he was graduated at Poughkeepsie law school, but having a umphantly carried by the Republicane. greater love for a hoe than for Blackstone, and preferring the labor of the field to the drudgery of a law office, he bought a farm and tilled it well. He is one of the best informed men in the county. Concerning affairs in which the county, the State or the nation, is interested, his information is extensive and thorough. He is also a man of broad, practical common sense, as those who have worked with him on the county board can testify. His excellent business qualifications, his vigorous mind, his extensive knowledge of men and things, and his strong characacter, and wide personal influence, well fit him for a member of the Legislature. He is popular in his district, sound in Republicanism, and will receive a very large ma- the banks conduct business as common-

The friends of Hon. O. C. Johnson, of Belott were desirous of placing him in nomination for the Assembly, but a majority of the delegates seeming to be in favor of Mr. Burdge, the Colonel's name was not presented to the convention. Desirous of promoting harmony in the party, and deeply appreciating the importance of the issues of the campaign, and wishing to do all in his power to push forward the good works. Colonel Johnson, with an unselfishness which commands the highest praise, yielded his chances to others.

A WORD ABOUT PARKER.

Mr. Parker's inconsistency and shiftlessness since he was nominated by the Green backers on the first of August, are sufficient of themselves to make sure his deteat. He has placed himself in the role of a demogogue, and by that course can not but lose the respect and the confidence of the members of both the Greenback and the Democratic parties. There are many good traits about Mr. Parker, but since he has attempted to deal in financial questions and to run for Congress on any platform which he thinks win, he has exposed himself to criticism. It will be remembered that the platform which he prepared for the first Elkhorn Convention, said all the currency issued by the Government to replace the bank note circulation should be made a legal tender, and that the bonds should be paid in paper. staunch Democrat." Mr. Lawrence won't In his supposed answer to Judge Doolittle's thank the Democrat for that unkind reletter, he is made to assume an entirely different position, and he also save the financial policy of the Republican party is false, for which it and the party should be overthrown. Now let us see if under Parker's new departure he is not himself preparing the way to become, as Inter Ocean says, bloated bondholders. In his answer to Judge Doelittle, Mr. Parker says "he wants to make greenbacks receivable for the new four per cent bonds, the principal and interest of which are payable in coin." Now what does he mean by this? Will he admit that he was first nominated on a greenback platform which did not express visit. He found him smoking desperately his views, or will be acknowledge that his at a cigar nearly a foot long. "Why," answer to Doolittle was merely to please asked he, breathlessly, "where on earth consistency is worth something even in a politician, and that he cannot change his financial opinion once a week to please Judge Doolittle or anybody else. If he is a Greenbacker, and a member of the National party, let the people know it once and for all.

It will have some weight to quote from the Inter Ocean, a paper with moderate greenback views, to show how Mr. Parker is dodging about from one side to another in order to catch votes. In speaking of his answer to Doolittle favoring the making of greenbacks receivable for the new four per cent. bonds &c., the Inter Ocean says, "this is all well enough, but whither is Mr. Parker drifting when he advocates such a thing? Not only does he propose a for the present which plan the Greenbackers have objected to as applied to the past, but he jumps into the same boat with the awful Secretary of the Treasury, and pulling with all his might in the direction of Sherman and resumption!" And yet Parker's platform demands that the resumption act shall be repealed! Sherman said in his interview with the Congressional Committee last winter: Secretary Sherman—I think you can aid resumption very much if you will allow me to receive United States notes in payment of bonds, as the Senate has already expressed a willingness to do, and if the house would concur with them—if I could sell four per cent bonds for currency, and then reissue the currency in the purchase of six per cent bonds, it would be an aid to resumption.

Senator Jones—Let me see if I understand you.
Is your idea this, that if you were permitted to sell four per cent bends for currency it would raise the value of currency?
Secretary Sherman—It would.
Senator Jones—And in that respect would aid you in resumption; it would extinguish to a certain degree the premium between gold and silver currency.

Secretary Sherman—Yessir. The people wang these bonds, and we expect to sell them at home. So it seems that Parker has completely changed front, and believes in Sherman's plan. Sherman's policy is the Republican policy, and yet Parker says the country will never get on the road to prosperity until that policy and the party are overthrown! The Republican Senate approved Sherman's plan (the one Parker now embraces), but the Democratic House yielding to the Greenback influence prevented the plan from going into operation.

Taking into account the two principal features of the gathering. factions which are, or have been bitterly arrayed against each other in that Statethe Conkling wing of the party, and that headed by George William Curtis-the Convention was an honor to the great name of Republican. Conkling with his mighty force of eloquence drew from all members the heartiest applause; while Curtis with his peculiar power, logic, and winning words, carried, one might say, the Convention by storm. The harmony was characteristic and powerful for good. Politicians speak of the stoppage of their circulation, and the complete change of the system on which place events. In reality they imply a uniyersal disturbance of business and finance. The experiment is not one which wise men will force upon the community."

When that old Democratic leader, Thomas H. Benton, was on earth, he was a man whom all Democrats delighted to honor, for his solid financial views. Here is what he said once, and mark the words: "Paper money tends to aggrivate the inequality of fortunes; to make the rich richer and the poor poorer, to multiply nabobs and paupers, and to deepen and widen the gulf which separates Dives from

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M. THE OLD HOME OF THE GRANTS.

The Roof-Tree that Once Sheltered Ulysses, Orville and the Dents.

From the Vanceburg (Ky') Courier. Not many of those who are reading about General Grant's triumphal tour through Europe are aware of the fact that Lewis county was at one time the home of the Grant family and that they engaged suc-cessfully in the tannery business in this county. Such, however, is the fact, and many of our citizens were intimately acquainted with Jesse, the father, and Ulysses S., Samuel Simpson, and Orville, the three sons. The Fryer tanyard, near Esculapia Springs, in this county, was, somewhere about thirty years ago, the property of Jesse Grant and his son Simpson. They managed their tanyard with much success, and were very popular as citizens and neighbors. Judge Holbrook, an old and prominent lawyer of Vanceburg, an intimate friend of the Grants, describes them as very genial and clever men. After a Office hours from 9 to 12 a. m., and 1 to 5 p. m. residence of several years here the family sold out and moved to Galena, Illinois, and our people, in a measure lost sight of them. When the war broke out and General Grant was becoming known all over the country many of our citizens did not at first connect him with the same family that formerly resided here, but he flashed into notoriety so fast that inquiries were made and it was soon ascertained that he was the same man who formerly visited his father near Esculapia and spent much of his time with the old gentleman. General Grent at the time lived with his fatherin-law, Mr. Dent, near St. Louis. Those who knew him here say he was then a very quiet sort of a man, talking but little, but very polite and agreeable in a peculiar way. No one ever dreamed in those days that the quiet man who frequently come to the county was destined to be twice President of the United States and the General in-Chief of the American army, and that he was destined to be the guest of kings and emperors.

POISONING A COMMUNITY.

The Part Which a Contractor Played in the Production of the Plague at New Orleans.

To find a dishonest city contractor partly responsible for the yellow fever is not surprising. Pestilence, as well as demoralization, naturally belongs in the train of administrative corruption. It is now disclosed that in New Orleans several thousand loads of kitchen garbage, collected throughout the city, was brought back from the dumping-grounds, where it was required to be deposited, and used for filling in streets. The Times, of that city, made public this statement of facts on the 18th and on the 20th it returns with additional evidence to fortify the charge. The deposit of the garbage in the street filling was going on, it says, at the time the fever broke out, and undoubtedly the poisonous missensus misse the poisonous miasma that arose from the decomposing mass must have promoted in the most effective manner the development of the epidemic germ. Early in August the Health Officer of the Fourth district of the city, Dr. Holt, referred to this infamous business, and declared that "the dumping of garbage by hundreds of cartiolads into populous streets," with other sanitary transgressions equally flagrant, which he enumerated, had combined to prepare the way for "the appearance and spread of some malignant contagion." This warning came too late; the mischief was done; the thievish contractor had secured his material for street filling, and gained a thousand or ten thousand dishopest dollars, while the air of New Orlerns was polsoned and the yellow fever as "Petit Juropes."

Now that the epidemic is subsiding, but purpose had been to produce that result.

Now that the epidemic is subsiding, but while its horrors yet linger in the public view, the investigation of such crames is first in order, and the people of New Orleans, we hope, will leave nothing unturned in the vigor and severity with which allots for murder could be too severe for the criminal who committed this infamous assault upon the community's lite.

Only a Railroad Man.

From the Philadelphia Press. An engineer named Edward Osmond was recently running a passenger express train through from Philadelphia to Jersey City. It was one of the swiftest and heaviest trains, which are only intrusted to the most experienced engineers. The train was making sixty miles an hour, when a heavy connecting rod of the engine broke, and one end of it, swinging upward with terrible force, struck the cab beneath him, and shattered it into a thousand pieces. Osmond fell senseless on the engine. He was both burned and scalded, and the pain quickly restored consciousess. The engine, with its open throttle, was rushing forward with frightful velocity to certain iestruction.

Inside the long train of cars were men talking, smoking, laughing; women play-ing with their babes. The fireman let himself down from the tender and escaped. Osmond might have done the same. Instead, he crept along the side of the engine, carefully let himself into his place, and with his badly burned hands he reversed the engine and applied the airbrake. The train stopped. People inside the car went on with their reading and their gossip, and the children played with their mothers, who wondered, indifferently perhaps, why the train was stopping again. They never will know that this is no idle talk. how, in one brief minute, they passed over the very mouth of the grave, and were snatched back by the quiet, high courage of one poor workman. To our minds there is something finer in the calm integrity of duty in the face of danger and death which is so often seen in the lives of obscure American mechanics who fill posts of responsibility than in the dash and sudden courage of many a daring soldier on the battle-field.

The Telephone Not New.

A writer in the London Standard argues that electro-magnetic telephony is not a novelty per se. To prove his position, le says: "Twenty-two years ago I met with an extract from The Builder, entitled 'Music laid on like gas.' The notice ran thus: 'At the Polytechnic a band playing in a distant apartment is unheard, but connect the different instruments by means of thin rods of wood, each with the sounding board of a harp in the lecture room, and the music becomes as audible to all as it it was present. The experiment proves that music might be laid on to the houses of a town from a central source, like gas. A well-known joker proposed the establishment of a band-ditty company on the spot."

ANFORD'S RADICAL CURE For CATARRH

INSTANTLY relieves and permanently cures this lostshome disease in all its varying stages. It possesses the soothing and healing properties of plants, herbs and barks in their essential form, free from every fibrous contamination, and in this respect differs from every other known remedy. In one short year it has found its way from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and wherever known has become the standard remedy for the treatment of Catarrh. The proprietors have been waited upon by gentlemen of national reputation who have been cured by this remedy, and who have, at considerable expense and personal trouble, apread the good news throughout the circles in which they move. When you hear a wealthy gentleman of intelligence and refinement say, "I owe my life to Sanford's Radical Cure," you may feel assured that it is an article of great value, and worthy to be classed among the standard medical specifics of the day.

THE benefit I derive from its daily use is to me HENRY WELLS, OF WELLS, FAEGO & Co. IT has cured me after twelve years of uninter-rupted suffering. GEO. W. HOUGHTON, WALTHAM, MASS. I FOLLOWED the directions to the letter and am happy to say I have had a permanent cure. .

We have yet to learn of the first complaint. S. D. BALDWIN & CO., WASHINGTON, IND. FARM NOTES.

Of tea plants there are nearly 500,000 acres under cultivation in India. Colorado sweet potatoes are said to equal the South Carolina product in succu-

In 1836 there were 12,897,638 sheep in the United States; in 1878, 34,740,200. is estimated that there are in the world, 484,000,000 of these animals.

A curious disease has appeared among the cows in Polk county, Wisconsin. It affects the inside of the legs and developes into large running sores. The cows become lame, and the flesh looks raw. It is a mistake to expect to succeed at farming without plenty of good honest work. Some men may have made money without work, but no farmer ever made a crop without a good deal of that indispensable article.

It is now estimated by Delaware peach growers that this season's crop will aggregate one million baskets, at an average of $1 per basket clear, so that the yield will bring $1,000,000 into the peninsula, principally in the lower sections.

Probably the largest sale of cattle ever made in the Wabash Valley, Indiana, was made by Moses Flowler, W. S. and J. H. Vannata, of Lafayette, lately. The herd numbered 2,300 head of fat seteers graded in weight and quality from $3.62½ to $4.25 per hundred. The sale amounted to about $130,000.

The Troy, New York, Times says that the potato crop in that section and throughout Renssellaer, Washington and Saratoga -the largest potato growing counties in the State—will not yield one-half a crop. Indeed so bad is the yield that some farmers have not made more than a barrel of marketable potatoes to the acre. The magnitude of the shortage will be understood when it is remembered that the last United States census gave the crop of these three countres at 4,882,504 bushels of potatoes.

The Canada Thistle. Ferndale Enterprise.

The Canada thistle, as it is called, is a great pest and a great injury to the farmer. It multiplies unmensely every year. How to get rid of it is a problem to solve which is worth thousands. Several agricultural journals give the following methods. Will MR HR STEVENS:any farmer adopt it and get rid of this in-truder and curse? Cut off the thistle at the time it begins to fulfill the mission of its growth—the time of perfecting its seed. Let it remain during the season up to the time undisturbed, and when its greatest vitality is in the weed, which is the time of flowering, cut it off. The roots are then in an exhausted condition, having contributed the vitality necessary for the plant to mature its seed. This lost vitality is returned to the roots through the leaves from the atmosphere, and, as the plant is destroyed, the roots are left without the means to rethe roots are left without the means to re-cuperate. Possibly there may be enough vitality for the roots to throw up some new sprouts, and, if such should be the case, cut them off during the fall. After this treatment, if you have any thistles the next year, there will be fewer of them, and another application of the same remedy will probably entirely relieve the farm of

The Principles Governing the Production of Milk.

l understand very well, as probably every man does who handles milk, that there is a wide difference in the composition of pure milk, especially in the matter of the percentage of butter. All milk is richer in September than in June, and it varies in this respect in different seasons In the same number of cows. The circumstances which lead to this are many. The cow that is fleshy gives milk richer in butter than the cow that is thin and poor.

One that has reached her full maturity

Dear Sir,—We have been selling your vegetine" for the past eighteen months, and we take pleasure in stating that in every case, to our knowledge, it has given great satisfaction.

One that has reached her full maturity gives better milk than she did before she gives better milk than she did before she reached that age; a cow that is gaining flesh day by day gives richer milk than a cow that is losing gradually. The condition of the pastures have also much to do with the quality of the production. This condition is governed in turn by the season. Experience has taught me that a cow's milk very deficient in butter oftener fatters a finer calf than that of a first-class tens a finer calf than that of a first-class butter cow. When a man tells me what a splendid fat calf his cow always rears, I H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass. do not wish to purchase her for a butter

A man cannot produce milk profitably for any purpose without feeding his cows liberally with good, abund, highly nutritious food. The cow has been likened to a machine. It requires a certain amount of food to supply the demands of nature. All above that amount which she will take and assimilate will be converted into milk and flesh. The herd should be kept warm in winter, and fed and watered with regularity. Their diet should be varied as larity. Their diet should be varied as much as convenience will allow. Early cut hay, shorts, corn, meal and vegetables should be included in the bill of fare, and we shall then be rewarded with milk in all On the other hand the herd that is poorly fed, carelessly housed and cared for, can-act give anything but watery milk, almost worthless for butter or table.—Scientific Farmer.

> Prepare for Winter. From the Prairie Farmer:

This is an especially proper time to look to the condition of our barns, sheds and other buildings. The business of the summer has prevented this, perhaps, and yet the buildings may need more or less repairs to protect the stock and implements from the clements. the elements. One severely cold or stormy night may cost more than all the time which may now be required. have the necessary stabling and sheds for the accommodation of the stock on hand, and may be very inconvenient, if not impossible, to erect permanent ones. Still, it is necessary that something of the kind be provided, and unless it can be, we would consult our own interests by get. ting rid of so much of the stock as we find ourselves unable to provide for in this particular. It is not very difficult howeyer, very fortunately to provide shelter on an average farm. It we cannot erect a nice barn or build permanent sheds, we can do the next best thing and construct sheds very cheaply by using the material which we have on hand. We can obtain timber enough often from our own farms, and, if not, from some other, to supply us with all the posts we may need, at scarcely any cost; also for what we may need for the foundation of the roof and the ratters It would cost little, under any circumstances, for the timber so used need be good for nothing else, except perhaps, firewood, and often not for that. The posts and rafters once in position, and so placed as to make an incline for the better turning of water, make the roof of straw, grass, etc. So far as covering is concerned, such a roof will furnish about as much protection as any roof. Then for sides a double wall can be made, the center of which can be filled with straw, and you have a very good and comfortable dwelling for your stock.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir,—Your "Vegetine" has been doing wonders for me. Have been having the Chills and Fever, contracted in the swamps of the South nothing giving me relief until I began the use of your Vegetine, it giving me immediate relief, to-ning up my system, purifying my blood, giving strength; whereas all other medicines weakered me, and filled my system with poison; and I am satisfied that if families that live in the ague districts of the South and West would take Vege-tine two or three times a week, they would not be troubled with the "Chille" or the malignant Fevers that prevail at certain times of the year, save doctors' bills, and live to a good old age. Respectfully yours,

ALL DISEASES OF THE BLOOD. If VEGETINE will

relieve pain, cleanse, purify, and cure such discases, restoring the patient to perfect health, after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, it you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention.

CAUSE IN BOCK COUNTY.

Dear Brethren: The Rock County Bible Society will employ no agent the present year to canvass the county, as formerly, but, following the advice of the American Bible Society, they recommend that the annual meetings of the several branch societies be held during the month of October the present year, at such times and places as may suit your convenience.

This, in our opinion, being a fayorable season of the year for holding these meetings, and for taking up collections for the Bible cause. By following this course we hope to save the expense of a county agent which, for the last few years, has absorbed all the collections he has taken; and to be able annually to make a donation to the parent society to help supply the destitute in other portions of our country and in foreign fields. Our County Treasurer and depositary, is hereby authorized, in his discretion, to call upon and make settlements with the treasurers of branch societies, and to assist in taking an invoice of the books on hand, and to see that a reasonable supply of Scriptures is kept in all the branch depositories. As soon as convenient after your annual meetings, please forward your collections to the County Treasurer, that he may forward the same for the use of the parent society. Should you need the assistance of some person to deliver the address at your annual meeting, you will be supplied by communicating with our President, Mr. H. S Hogoboom The annual meeting of the County Bi-ble Society will be held in this city on Sabbath evening, November 10th ult., and we hereby cordially invite all friends of the cause throughout the county to be present with us on that occasion and participate The roll of delegates as adopted then in the exercises, and also in the election of officers for the ensuing year on the following Monday.

Hoping you will give this cause that careful and prayerful attention which it deserves, and that God will bless all our efforts in the dissemination of the truth as contained in His Word. We are, dear brethren, Very truly yours, &c.,

H. S. Hogoboom, President, J. W. SANDERSON, Sec'y, pro tem, JAMES SUTHERLAND, Treasurer, Rock County Bible Society. Janesville, Sept. 24, A. D., 1878.
